SECNAV keynote speaker for 115th USNI meeting

The Honorable William L. Ball, Secretary of the Navy, will be the keynote speaker at the 115th annual meeting of the U.S. Naval Institute, Thursday and Friday at the Naval Postgraduate School.

The meeting alternates sites each year between Monterey and Washington D.C.

The 1988 winners of the USNI's annual essay and photo contests will be honored at a Thursday banquet. Among those winners

NPS professor, 2 others, set to receive Arleigh Burke Essay awards Thursday are Capt. Tom Grassey, academic associate professor for the intelligence studies program in the National Security Affairs Department at NPS. Grassey, on the NPS faculty since 1987, will receive a bronze medal and cash prize for his essay, "Justifying the Cost of Sea Power." The article will be published in the July issue of Proceedings, USNI's magazine.

A Naval Institute Press "Authors in the Spotlight" session begins formal activities Friday. Naval Institute authors will discuss the stories behind their books and follow with an autograph session. Authors featured in this event are: Samuel Hynes, author of "Flights of Passage"; Col. John Miller, USMC (Ret.), author of "The Bridge at Dong Ha"; Capt. Wayne Hughes, USN (Ret.), author of "Fleet Tactics" and co-author of the "Classics of Sea Power" series; and Homer Hickam Jr., author of "Torpedo Junction."

Secretary Ball will speak at a luncheon following this session, offering insights on the future of the Navy and the new administration, and setting the stage for an afternoon panel.

The panel, titled, "Future Naval Forces: A Look into the Crystal Ball," will be moderated by Lt. Gen. Bernard Trainor, USMC (Ret.), military correspondent for the New York Times. Panelists include: Rear Adm. William Owens, USN, senior military assistant to the Secretary of Defense; Dr. Douglas Johnston, executive vice president of the Center for Strategic and International Studies (CSIS); Maj. Gen. Carl E. Mundy, USMC, deputy chief of staff for plans, policies, and operations; and a member of congress.

Highlighted throughout the day Friday will be a hands-on demonstration of the USNI's military database and a display of prize-winning photographs from the USNI/Kodak-sponsored Naval & Maritime photo contest.

Attendance is not open to the general public.

Toward the 21st century Navy

Marine Corps Lt. Col. Timothy P. Hudson and electronics warfare Professor A.W. Cooper lead the procession at the Naval Postgraduate School's spring graduation. Keynote speaker Vice Chief of Naval Operations Adm. Leon A. Edney, said, "In looking towards the 21st century, it is clear that all countries will require career military officers who combine that delicate mixture of operational experience and solid intellectual capacity."

From the Superintendent

by Rear Adm. Robert C. Austin

A postscript to the Vice Chief of Naval Operations' recent visit.

I was delighted to have the opportunity to show the Vice Chief the Naval Postgraduate School. I started the morning by rendezvousing with him after he had taken a stroll of the grounds. We proceeded to breakfast with some faculty and students for a roundtable discussion about the Naval Postgraduate School.

As we headed for the La Novia Room, I commented on my previous Thursday morning breakfast. At that breakfast I asked those assembled, "What would you have me say to the Vice Chief when he visits the school?" After a couple of attempts to get an input, one of the Thursday breakfasters stood up and said, "Tell the Vice Chief to tell his Admirals to stop coming out and opening their guest lectures with 'I hate to take you off the golf courses.'"

My response this input was, "I'll be happy to tell him." This remark was a serious one. He was chagrined that senior naval officers would have thought the purpose and the effort put forth by officers assigned to study at the Naval Postgraduate School encompassed too much hard work and professionalism to make light of it. As we were proceeding through the La Novia Room door I had passed the remark on to the Vice Chief. He smiled.

As we sat around the table, everyone spoke a little bit about what they were doing. It wasn't but a few minutes later that one of the officers mentioned that he had lowered his handicap. Goes to prove that Murphy's Law works.

I am pleased, however, to report to you that from the ensuing walks around the Naval Postgraduate School, and conversations with professors and students alike, the overwhelming impression of this VCNO was that there was an enormous amount of serious, hard, tough work, and growth in understanding what was going on here, that was going to be of great value to the Navy of the future. He thoroughly appreciated his first ever visit to NPS and was enthusiastic about all he saw.

Successful Valentine's Day blood drive at NPS

by Susan McBride

The Valentine's Day blood drive at NPS was a resounding success with 215 personnel participating, a 400 percent increase over the last quarter of 1988.

In that year, the Navy was forced to spend $485,000 purchasing blood from civilian banks.

A letter of commendation received by the superintendent's office from the headquarters of the U.S. Army Medical Department Activity at Fort Ord said, "There is no substitute for human blood, just as there is no substitute for the generosity of recent blood drive donors and organizers.

Lt. Michelle Leslie, blood drive coordinator, attributed its success to a group effort in publicizing how blood donations save both lives and money.

Leslie said she hopes the success of February's blood drive will continue next quarter and that those who participated will encourage others to give blood routinely.

Golf

Tryouts for the 1989 NPS golf team will be held April 13-27. Sign-up sheets are available in the NPS Pro Shop. Only active duty personnel are eligible to play in this year's season which runs from May 1 to Sept. 30.

An organizational meeting will be held April 12 at 5:15 p.m. in the NPS course clubhouse. For more information call 373-8126.

Softball

Spring is here and it's time for softball once again. This year's schedule will get into full swing April 10, at Sparks Field with 32 teams in the "A", "B" and Co-Ed leagues.

The 1989 April Fools Co-Ed Slow Pitch Tournament will be held April 22, at Sparks Field. The tournament will be limited to the first eight teams, and deadline for team roster and entry fee is April 17.

Each team is guaranteed two games and trophies will be awarded to first and second place team sponsors. The rules will be the 1989 ASA rulebook with Navy school amendments. For more information call Frank Samuel at ext. 2466.

Surfing

Anyone interested in forming a three-to four-man surf team to compete in the 1989 All Service Surfing Championships at Camp Pendleton in August can contact Davis Bowden at ext. 2023/4.

Tennis

The NPS Tennis Association will hold a spring tennis tournament April 15-16 at the NPS and La Mesa tennis courts. All active duty, retired military, DOD civilians and their dependents are eligible to play.

Entry forms are available in the NPS Rec Office, and the entry deadline is April 13, at 5 p.m. For more information call Jack Malokas at 626-1801 or 384-8459.

New boats, programs for NPS sailors

New boats and programs are the highlight of the NPS sailing program starting with the spring term.

Henry Schur, marina manager for the recreation department and an avid sailor himself, has arranged for the recreation department to acquire three additional cruising sailboats from Monterey Peninsula College.

Schur, working with Dick Frazer of MPC, worked out a joint training program between the two schools which should benefit both organizations.

In addition to the three new boats, the marina operations have been shifted from the recreation office to the pier. Schur said that this will allow the sailing patrons to come right down to the dock to rent the boats. No advance reservations are necessary and the new dockside phone number is 646-2159.

The marina operations will also be open on weekends. Saturday and Sunday hours will be from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. The office is located at the small building out on the pier (the army office). Schur extends an invitation to all personnel to come out and visit for a cup of coffee.

Sailing classes will start again Wednesday nights beginning April 12, and the cruising class starts April 13. Schur encourages all interested sailors to sign up early since the last classes were filled very quickly.

Schur said, "with the new boats and programs, a new or experienced sailor will have ample opportunity to sail and the enjoy the Monterey Bay."

For more information or to sign up for classes stop by or call the Rec Office at ext. 2466.

Movies

All movies will be shown at 7 p.m. except where noted and are subject to change. For more information about the movie schedule call 242-5566.
